

Wear Your Old Suit Patches If Necessary 'White Collar' Protest

"Don't cast away your old clothing. Wear your suits until holes appear and then put on patches. You will then do your part in bringing down the high cost of clothing."

This is the stand taken by Mayor Frank Francis, marking a departure from the "overalls" idea, in order that workmen may not be made to shoulder an additional burden through increase in price of denims and a resulting shortage from the great demand. Instead of wearing the denims Mayor Francis urges the people of Ogden to utilize their old clothes to the last.

In the eastern states patches are becoming badges of honor and, according to reports, a common sight on Broadway is to see prominent New Yorkers hit the harder on the high cost of clothing, the man wearing overalls or the man wearing the business suit.

"The man wearing a white collar must buy at least three to four suits a year for work he cannot wear hob-nail shoes or slouch hat. He must be 'dressed up' all the time. Therefore, who is paying the most, the white collar man or the overall man?"

"This, I say, why not bring the clothes question to a point where the working men all have an equal chance if overalls are good in one position why not another? Why should the white collar man pay three to four hundred dollars a year for business suits and the overall man fifty. Every overall man averages more pay than any gro-appearing in shiny and frayed clothing which in numerous instances are covered with patches. Mayor Francis has urged city employees to wear out their old suits and if necessary, appear in patches.

White Collar Jobs.
"I have read several comments recently in your paper on the overall movement and have also noticed answers thereto from Mayor Francis who says the overall movement is a good move and should be kept up to bring the high cost of clothing down and the wearing of 'patches' would be a good move as the present demand of the denims will cause a hardship on the working man."

"Now, a few words in that direction. No one wants to wear patches in any office and who is the working man? I am, you are and hundreds of other men who have white collar positions and others who actually need overalls in their daily work. But even so who every, clothing or other clerk, while their clothing expense is about one-eighth that of the white collar man. I am not knocking the overall man or his salary in any way but I mean this: Why not standardize the clothing price for all working men? Every man with a white collar job will have four or five suits, that is coat and vest, around his home, but no trousers to match and therefore when his trousers are gone it means a new suit of clothes. While the coat and vest are in good condition why shouldn't this man be allowed to wear overalls with these odd suits instead of buying a new suit each time? If they could do this I dare say no white collar man would need a suit for work for at least two years. It would work no more hardship on the overall man than the white collar man who must pay many more times for his working clothes."

"Yours for a square deal.
"A WHITE COLLAR MAN."

CATTLE CLEAN IN NORTH UTAH

Only Two Out of 300 Cattle
Found to Be Suffering
With Tuberculosis

That the northern Utah district is the cleanest dairy district in the entire United States, is shown in reports made to John Felt, city dairy inspector by W. L. Carson, inspector for the United States bureau of animal industry, who has been carrying on an investigation here for several weeks. The report states that out of 500 head of dairy cattle examined, but two have been found suffering with tuberculosis. Mr. Carson has noted in his report that this percentage is lower than in any dairy district in the entire country and the dairymen of this locality deserve praise for their efficient methods in handling their stock. Even in spite of the shortage of feed in the dairy districts, the animals are in excellent condition, he declared.

Mr. Felt is planning to leave for Salt Lake tomorrow to confer with Dr. C. W. Larson, chief of the dairy division of the United States bureau of animal industry who is now making a tour of the western country for the purpose of studying dairy conditions.

Took Wool From Dead Sheep; Gets $60 Fine

Charged with stealing a quantity of pulled wool from the carcasses of sheep lying on the property of Mrs. Ellen Marriott, of Wilson, R. Garner was sentenced to $60 or 60 days. The case appeared before Judge D. R. Roberts yesterday but the complaining witness was not present. In presenting his story, Garner claimed that the wool was rotting and was not of use to anyone unless removed. He claimed that a hired man had attempted to make him give up the wool after he had removed it.

O. L. Parry, hired man at the Marriott place, claimed that the sheep had to lay for a number of days before the wool could be pulled. Wool handled in this manner has greater value than when removed from the pelt, he testified.

Total coinage of the United States from 1793 to 1915 amounted to $4,540,000,000.

THREATENED TO BLOW BRAINS OUT NEGRESS ASSERTS

"Judge, he shoved a gun against my stomach and threatened to blow my brains out," said Elenora Townsend, colored, in testifying against William Henderson, also colored, who appeared before the city court this morning on a charge of disturbing the peace. Notwithstanding this and similar statements on the part of Mrs. Townsend, Henderson was adjudged not guilty by Judge D. R. Roberts, and the case dismissed.

The case arose out of domestic troubles, the testimony showing that Mrs. Townsend had told Henderson's wife that he was paying attention to another woman. Henderson, accompanied by his wife, visited the Townsend home to settle the questions which had arisen in the Henderson household.

Mrs. Townsend claimed that she was in the bathroom washing her dog when the couple came to her house and that in the conversation that ensued, Henderson drew a gun used vile language. Both Henderson and his wife claimed that these accusations were false.

James Pingree Files Demurrer in Suit

James Pingree this morning filed a demurrer to the complaint of Mrs. Elnora Stevenson in which she charged that Mr. Pingree defrauded her of $10,000 through urging her to purchase stock in the Ogden Packing & Provision company. ## Part-time Law Lacks Needed Enforcement

According to I. S. Noall, of the city board of education, considerable trouble is being given to the officers of the board by reason of the fact that there is not the necessary organization at present for enforcing the state law with regard to part time education. It is said that 15 per cent of the scholars who ought to be pursuing a part time course are neglecting their opportunities. We have not the proper co-ordination on the part of officers of the law, parents and employers in this matter at present. If we had, then school ought to call for more than a per cent of absences. We are hoping that next year we shall find a considerable change for the better, said Mr. Noall.
